

Banner offers wider selection for builders

After 32 years of operation, the family run Banner Hardware chain has entered its next phase of growth in the ever-changing hardware and building supply market.

First established in 1979 by Rod Evins, and now under the reins of son's Matt and James, the Evins family successfully operates a chain of 6 hardware stores, 2 frame and truss plants, and a heavy trade distribution centre to support whole-of-house supply.

On 1 June 2011 they launched their latest offering Banner Home Select.

Banner Home Select is a one-stop home selection centre for both builders and their clients, which specialises in bathrooms, doors, appliances, flooring and solar solutions. A great range of products is on offer including well-known brands like Caroma, Bosch, Blanco, Seima, Corinthian, Boral and Solar Shop.

Builders simply send their clients to Banner Home Select for all their fixture & fitting selections, and one of the expert showroom consultants guides them through the entire process. By giving their clients access to this added service, they no longer have to worry about running around town placing different orders with different suppliers.

Home Select will make life easier for both builders and their clients. Builders will save time and money, and their clients will find all that they need to finish their home".

Long term Banner customer and builder, Simon Vanleuven from S One Innovations said, "I'm flat out doing renovations and additions across Adelaide. Banner Hardware has always been great to deal with and they can supply me with any product I need. Now the Banner Home Select selection centre has further improved their offering.
